Weaverville Joss House State Historic Park: Start your day out at Weaverville Joss House State Historic Park, the oldest continuously used Chinese temple in California. On display are art objects, pictures, mining tools, and weapons used in the 1854 Tong War. This Taoist temple is still a place of worship and is a fascinating look into the role played by Chinese immigrants in early California history.

Weaverville: After you've explored the Joss House head in to Weaverville – this historic town still features buildings from the gold rush! While today they're populated with museums, shops, and antique stores, walking down Weaverville's main street will still have you feeling like you've stepped back in time. Make sure to grab lunch while you're there - with a variety of locally-run restaurants and cafes, there's something to satisfy every pallet!
